Career and Education Readiness (CER) Activities for Warrior Transition Unit (WTU) Soldiers

What is Career and Education Readiness?

Career and Education Readiness (CER) is a required component of transition for all eligible Soldiers at Warrior Transition Units (WTUs). Whether on the Remain in the Army or the Transition from the Army track, Soldiers will find a great number of career and education resources available. Career and Education Readiness activities may include: internships, vocational training, professional certifications and continuing education.

Who is eligible to participate in CER?

Both Medical Management (M2) and the WTU Commander must deem a Soldier eligible to participate in CER activities. Medical Management must conclude a Soldier medically, emotionally and physically ready to participate in CER activities and the WTU Commander determines if the Soldier demonstrates the initiative and self-discipline for CER activities.

Who is involved in CER?

A number of WTU staff members are involved with Soldiers' career and education activities:

- Transition Coordinator (TC)
- Occupational Therapist-Registered (OTR)
- Nurse Care Manager (NCM)
- Squad Leader (SL)
- Medical Management (M2)
- Career Counselor (CC)

In addition, non-WTU personnel may also be involved, such as Department of Defense (DoD) Operation Warfighter Regional Coordinators (OWF RCs) and Veterans Administration (VA) Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment (VR&E) Counselors.

When does the CER process occur?

Soldiers will receive a briefing about CER from their Transition Coordinator (TC) during the in-processing phase. Eligibility is determined during the rehabilitation/reintegration phases. Soldiers, in collaboration with their interdisciplinary team (IDT), determine their desired CER activity and carry it out during the rehabilitation stage, once determined CER eligible.

How do Soldiers choose their CER activity?

Once eligible, Soldiers work closely with their Occupational Therapist (OT) and TC to set CER goals. The activity chosen must align with the Soldier's Comprehensive Transition Plan (CTP) track and career goals.
